

Sunday, February 8th, 2015

Keep Galley Odour Free

Everyone loves to enjoy a good smelling galley on board a superyacht where aromas precede the meals to come. No one however wants a yacht to be filled with the fragrance of cooking yet many yachts do not have space for cooker vents

For yachts such as these Dutch manufacturer AdTIM has created cooker hoods for yachts as these don't need outlet ducting. This saves a considerable amount of space for piping as well as the cost for installing and engineering the piping

So there is no smell on deck as with the exhaust on deck or at the waterline and no noise from the extractor fan which is the case with the exhaust of the cooker hood in the top of the mast.

The cooker hoods with active plasmafilter functions with recirculation and removes 100% of the odors, bacteria and germs from the air. This system is environmentally friendly, power-saving and has a very low noise level: 49 dbA at the highest level.

The cooker hoods with active filter are proven technology.

Plasmafilters have been every day use since 2006 and can be in cooker hoods all over the world and there are thousands delivered for domestic use every year in the Netherlands.

This active plasmafilter is also used in the AirPurifier systems from AdTIM which solve all odor problems aboard, as from the sewage systems but are also used as clean air box for the HVAC systems.

The cooker hoods can also be equipped with HiFog nozzles.

Leave a Reply

You must be logged in to post a comment.

Comments RSS Feed

« Failed round the world yachtsman Donald Crowhurst is to be remembered in a movie

SUBMIT STORY

NEWS ARCHIVE

- ▶ 2015
- ▶ 2014
- ▶ 2013
- ▶ 2012
- ▶ 2011
- ▶ 2010
- ▶ 2009

Search

Search by keyword

Category

News ▼

Month

Any Month ▼

Go

Subscribe to News via Email

Enter your email address to subscribe to this blog and receive notifications of new posts by email.

Join 31 other subscribers

Email Address

Subscribe

AZIMUT | BENETTI
GROUP

To advertise in this space contact:
info@thehoworths.com

HODGDON
Yachts • Interiors • Tenders
Charting Innovation Since 1816

